Intermediate Chinese
CHIN 2004-2504 (4 Credits / 60 class hours)
SIT Study Abroad Program:
China: Language, Cultures, and Ethnic Minorities

PLEASE NOTE: This syllabus represents a recent semester. Because courses develop and change over time to take advantage of unique learning opportunities, actual course content varies from semester to semester.

Course Description
This intensive one-on-one or one-on-two Chinese language course is conducted during the last month of the program. Combined with the required six-credit language course during the first ten weeks of the program, students who choose the intensive Chinese language track can earn up to ten language credits in one semester. Students also sign a 24-hour language pledge for the duration of this course.

This four-credit Intermediate Chinese course is designed for students who have completed our Beginning Chinese course (CHIN 1000-1500; 6 credits/90 class hours.) Emphasizing oral expression and listening comprehension, the goal of this course is to develop students’ communicative skills in speaking, listening, reading and writing. The course provides students a grammatical foundation and facilitates language use, with special emphasis on grammar, correct syntax, and verbal expression/writing skills and helps students develop culturally appropriate language skills.

Classes and field-based language activities are taught by experienced, professionally trained, native-speaking teachers of a foreign language using oral proficiency-based methods.

Instruction consists of 60 hours of formal classes with additional outside the classroom assignments and daily homework. Various teaching methods are employed, including in-class discussions on Chinese and American subjects (in Chinese), recitations for aural comprehension and grammar exercises. The course culminates in a final oral presentation to peers, faculty and program partners. This language training is based at Yunnan Nationalities University.

Learning Outcomes
Upon completion of the course, students will be able to:

- Handle successfully the most uncomplicated communicative tasks and social situations;
- Initiate, sustain, and close a general conversation with a number of strategies appropriate to a range of circumstances and topics;
- Understand major syntactic constructions such as “ba” and “bei” structures;

• Discuss daily life and routine events;
• Share personal experiences with others;
• Read Chinese signs and some articles in Chinese newspapers;
• Use the target language with improved accuracy;
• Conduct interviews in Chinese;
• Read about 1000 and write about 600 simplified Chinese characters;
• Write simple letters in Chinese.

Course Requirements
Reinforcement exercises, both oral and written, are assigned. On average, students are required to complete at least 1 hour of homework daily. Class attendance is required; preparation and participation are highly emphasized. Active engagement and meaningful involvement in class activities are expected. Students should complete their assignments individually, on time, and with full efforts. A late assignment will result in a lower grade.

Language Pledge: At the start of this course, students sign a language pledge that requires students to communicate in Chinese 24-hours per day. With exceptions for emergencies and a few other circumstances stipulated in the Language Pledge signed by students, we provide the support and guidance to help students meet this important challenge.

Required Texts
New Practical Chinese Reader 3 and 4, a Project of NOCFL of the People’s Republic of China (Liu Xun, Beijing Language and Culture University, 2008).

The textbook used for this course focuses on exclusive use of Chinese script, introduction of idioms and comprehensively teaches grammatical structures with commonly used vocabulary by means of structural drills. Liu Xun’s communicative and structurally based approach is well suited to the needs of foreign students living in a Chinese-speaking environment wishing to acquire a solid foundation of Chinese grammar. In addition, a computer software program for practicing Chinese characters will be provided to students.

Evaluation and Grading Criteria
Instructors evaluate student performance based on observation, written exercises, and exams given throughout the course. Final grades are assigned by the Academic Director in consultation with the language instructors on the basis of the instructors’ evaluations, the students’ own self-evaluation, and the Academic Director’s observations of the students’ participation in classes and their efforts to use the language outside of the classroom and adhere to the Language Pledge.

Oral proficiency interviews will be conducted at the beginning and end of the course to provide a measurement of students’ overall linguistic progress. Course grades provide an assessment of students’ performance in meeting the requirements of the language class while oral proficiency interviews provide an assessment of students’ linguistic competence in standard Chinese. The program’s Academic Director and language faculty completed ACTFL OPI tester training in January 2014, and anticipate completing ACTFL OPI Tester Certification by March 2015.

Grades are assigned by the language instructors based on the following evaluation criteria:

Daily Quizzes/Written Homework/Oral Work  50%
A brief quiz (approximately 10 minutes) will be held daily. The quiz will cover recent grammar, phrases and vocabulary terms. Daily written homework assignments reinforce the material taught through classroom drills.

Final Oral and Written Examinations, averaged together  25%
A group of language teachers will evaluate each student’s oral proficiency level. The written exam will be a comprehensive test covering grammar, sentence structure, vocabulary and writing skills.

Final presentation  25%
Students are required to present their language study learning outcomes, individually or in a small group. The presentation may consist of a speech, skit, drama, performance or student created format, self-designed and in Chinese. 30 minutes long.

Expectations and Policies

Show up prepared. This language course is comprised of a combination of individualized and group learning. Students must participate fully and be on time for all scheduled activities and classes. Intensive language study requires great concentration and dedication, therefore you must be well rested and have a clear head and have your readings completed and points in mind for discussion or clarification. Reading and observation will be tested regularly with quizzes.

Complete assignments on time. Assignments are due at the start of class unless otherwise instructed. Assignments are docked 5% for each day or part of a day that they are late. Contact the Academic Director in advance if health or other issues prevent you from submitting an assignment on time. All assignments must be completed to get a passing grade. Graded assignments will be returned within two weeks of submission and usually within the same week.

During in-class and out-of-classroom activities we are in class. Students are expected to act appropriately; including refraining from using cell phones, ipods, internet, etc.

Comply with academic integrity policies (no plagiarism or cheating, nothing unethical).

Comply with stipulations of the Language Pledge:

Respect differences of opinion (classmates’, lecturers, local constituents engaged with on the visits). You are not expected to agree with everything you hear, but you are expected to listen across difference and consider other perspectives with respect.

Respect differences in peer language levels and degrees of fluency. Collegiality and peer-to-peer learning are basic expectations.

Please refer to the SIT Study Abroad handbook for policies on academic integrity, ethics, warning and probation, diversity and disability, sexual harassment and the academic appeals process. Also, refer to the specific information available in the program handbook given to you at Orientation, particularly the code of conduct, the policy on blogging and taking photographs, and the grading policy.
