Advanced Chinese
CHIN 3006-3506 (6 Credits / 90 class hours)

SIT Study Abroad Program:
China: Health, Environment, and Traditional Chinese Medicine

Course Description
This advanced level language course is designed to increase students’ preparedness for daily social demands and to provide access into the host culture. Students are thus enabled to enrich all aspects of their experience abroad through increased ability to function in Chinese during field methods exercises, and when interacting with homestay families and local contacts. One goal is to provide students with the language skills necessary to communicate in the host country language while conducting fieldwork for the Independent Study Project.

In this course, students develop advanced Chinese communicative skills in speaking, listening, reading and writing. With rigorous drills and practice in real life situations, students will gradually build up their communicative competency in Chinese. Moreover, the course will integrate Chinese culture to promote students’ cross-cultural awareness and understanding. Due to the great differences between Chinese and English, students will also be introduced to strategies and skills in learning Chinese as a foreign language.

Classes and field-based language activities are taught by experienced, professionally trained, native-speaking teachers of a foreign language using oral proficiency-based methods. Students are placed into the appropriate level based on an in-country ACTFL oral proficiency interview. These placements may not directly correspond to the student’s level at the home institution as SIT courses focus on communicative competence and linguistic functional ability.

Advanced Chinese has an interdisciplinary and experiential focus, encompassing 90 class hours (6 credits). This course’s five main objectives are: 1) to develop advanced communication skills in Chinese language through intensive formal instruction and cultural involvement; 2) to build upon students’ grammatical foundation and facilitate language use, with increased emphasis on pronunciation, correct syntax, and verbal expression; 3) to develop an advanced level of proficiency in reading and writing formal Chinese; 4) to examine extra-linguistic and paralinguistic features of language use; and 5) to master culturally appropriate language skills.

This syllabus is representative of a typical semester. Because courses develop and change over time to take advantage of unique learning opportunities, actual course content varies from semester to semester.
Language Levels and Placement
Students are placed into appropriate language course levels based on oral proficiency interviews conducted during orientation in Chinese.

Learning Outcomes
Upon completion of the course, students will be able to:
- Speak the language with sufficient accuracy to participate effectively in most formal and informal conversations on practical, social, professional, and abstract topics;
- Understand the main ideas of most speech in a standard dialect;
- Discuss special fields of competence and interest with ease;
- Support opinions and hypothesize on a broad range of concrete and abstract topics;
- Distinguish main ideas from supporting information through syntactic, lexical and suprasegmental features;
- Read Chinese newspapers and some academic publications;
- Conduct ISP interviews in Chinese;
- Read about 1500 and write about 600 simplified Chinese characters;
- Write composition in Chinese.

Course Requirements
Reinforcement exercises, both oral and written, are assigned. On average, students are required to complete at least 1 hour of homework daily. Class attendance is also required; preparation and participation are highly emphasized. Active engagement and meaningful involvement in class activities are expected. Students should complete their assignments individually in time and with full efforts. A late assignment may result in a lower grade.

Required Texts
The textbook for this course is Boya Chinese, Advanced level I & II, (Li Xiaoqi, Beijing University Publishing House, 2006). Li Xiaoqi’s communicative and structurally based approach is well suited to the needs of foreign students living in a Chinese-speaking environment wishing to acquire a solid foundation of Chinese grammar. In addition, a computer software program for practicing Chinese characters will be provided to students.

Evaluation and Grading Criteria
Instructors evaluate student performance based on observation, written exercises, and exams given throughout the course. Final grades are assigned by the Academic Director in consultation with the language instructors on the basis of the instructors’ evaluations, the students’ own self-evaluation, and the Academic Director’s observations of the students’ participation in classes and their efforts to use the language outside of the classroom.

Estimated ACTFL oral proficiency interviews are conducted toward the end of the semester to provide a measurement of students’ overall linguistic progress. Thus, course grades provide an assessment of students’ performance in meeting the requirements of the language class while estimated ACTFL scores provide an assessment of students’ linguistic competence in the host language.

Grades are assigned by the language instructors based on the following evaluation criteria:

Daily Quizzes/Written Homework /Oral Work: 50%
A brief quiz (approximately 10 minutes) will be held daily. The quiz will cover recent grammar, phrases and vocabulary terms. Daily written homework assignments reinforce the material taught through classroom drills.

Mid-term Oral and Written Examinations:(averaged together)  25%
The oral exam will be conducted one-on-one with a language instructor. The written exam will be a comprehensive test covering grammar, sentence structure and vocabulary.

Final Oral and Written Examinations:(averaged together)  25%
A group of language teachers will evaluate each student’s oral proficiency level. The written exam will be a comprehensive test covering grammar, sentence structure, vocabulary and writing skills.

Assessment
The final grade is determined as follows:
Daily Quizzes/Written Homework /Oral Work  50%
Mid-term Oral and Written Examinations  25%

Grading Criteria
An “A” grade for an assignment entails superior (not just “very good”) performance in terms of structure and organization of assignments, analysis, logical argumentation and consistency, and the provision of factual, numerical and/or historical evidence. In terms of class participation, an “A” grade refers to full attendance, punctuality, attentive listening and active engagement in all academic seminar lectures, discussions, field trips and other activities. It also means polite and respectful behavior. The level, frequency, and quality of student participation will be monitored and taken into account.

Student Expectations and Policies

Class Participation
Participation in class refers to attendance, punctuality, attentive listening and active engagement in all lectures, discussions, educational excursions, assignments and other activities. It also means polite and respectful behavior. An absent student is responsible for contacting the instructor, the tutor, and/or fellow students to be prepared for the assignments s/he missed and the ones scheduled for the next class.

Show up prepared
Be on time, have your assignments completed and points in mind for clarification. Complying with these elements raises the level of class discussion for everyone.

Have assignments completed on schedule, and done according to the specified requirements
This will help ensure that your assignments are returned in a timely manner.

Ask questions in class- Engage the lecturer
Teachers are highly respected in China. Your polite and engaged behavior is expected.

Comply with academic integrity policies
No plagiarism or cheating (nothing unethical)

Respect differences of opinion (classmates’, teachers’)
You are not expected to agree with everything you hear, but you are expected to listen across difference and consider other perspectives with respect.
