

Internship & Seminar

ITRN 3000 (4 credits / 120 hours)

SIT Study Abroad Program:

Chile: Cultural Identity, Social Justice and Community Development

Description

This seminar consists of a 4 week 120-hours internship with either a local community/international organization, research center, business or government agency. The aim of this internship is to provide students with valuable experience and to enhance their skills in a career/professional environment related to core program themes.

The SIT Valparaiso program will use its extensive community and governmental networks to facilitate rewarding internships that match students' interests and capacities. Interviews are often conducted to ascertain students' suitability. Selection process is dependent on available placements, intern skills, internship proposals, and language skills. The option to propose an internship placement with a new organization or institution is allowed. However, SIT Valparaiso cannot guarantee that they will work nor be approved.

The Academic Director along with the host organization will approve students' internship activities and their Internship Learning Agreement. SIT Valparaiso will maintain oversight over internship placements to ensure that they meet academic policies along with student health and security guidelines. Ultimately, each student will be responsible for making optimal use of the resources and knowledges available at their host organizations and to be proactive in engaging with local experts to achieve internship objectives.

Students will be informed of the types of internships available and the placement process early in the semester. Students must decide whether they want to undertake an internship by the fourth week of the program and will have ample opportunities to consult with SIT program staff before making their decision.

Two-hour reflection and assessment meetings will be held with the Academic Director or internship coordinator to review the progress of the internship including their ongoing learning, connections to the broader issues of program themes, along with their positionality, intercultural challenges, personal future relevance for their career and academic pursuits, and the application of ethics in the context of the internship.

* This syllabus represents a recent term. Because courses develop and change over time to take advantage of unique learning opportunities, actual course content varies from term to term.

Internships through SIT Valparaiso will provide students with the opportunity apply theory with practice, expand their analytical capacities, develop skills to support local community needs, and increase their cross-cultural sensitivity. They will also learn and effectively utilize fieldwork methodologies and to analyze and document their learnings through report writing. Furthermore, students will enhance their inter-personal skills and self-confidence to continue growing as professionals and as scholars.

Examples of internship placements and topics: ***

- Strengthening vulnerable populations through art, sports, and respect for diversity at School Laguna Verde, a primary school in rural Valparaiso
- Promoting Chilean students' mobility and study abroad opportunities with Universidad de Valparaíso International Relations
- Providing advocacy, education, and support for people living with HIV/AIDS at ACCIONGAY
- Supporting indigenous populations through methods based on Mapuche cultural practices at Guacolda, an intercultural high school in Chol Chol
- Researching political and educational issues at Pontificia Universidad Católica de Valparaíso's Centro de Educación Inclusiva
- Promoting labor inclusion of socially excluded men and women at Fundación Emplea
- Helping with human rights issues within local communities at the Municipality of Valparaíso's Communal Offices for Migrants, , Sexual Diversity, and Indigenous Peoples
- Aiding Espacio Santa Ana's efforts toward community development through self-management, arts, education, and territory in the context of vulnerability
- Addressing sexual violence against women from a perspective of gender and human rights in the region of Valparaiso with CVS
- Supporting Organic Style's ecological focus on products, art, and training services in the Valparaíso region
- Researching Mapuche land claims and sovereignty and the status of immigrants in Chile at a research center in Santiago, Centro de ética y reflexión social Fernando Vives of the Universidad Alberto Hurtado

*Topics and placements may vary according to the availability of each institution.

Each student will be required to submit a final paper in which they process their learning experience throughout the internship, analyze an issue important to the organization, and apply what they learned to core themes of the program. Approved in advance by the Academic Director, SIT's Local Review Board (for ethical clearance purposes), and the internship supervisor, the internship paper will involve interviews and other data collection methods relevant to achieving internship learning goals. Students will also prepare a presentation (similar to the one required of students who are in the independent study seminar) to demonstrate how the internship experience enhanced their understanding of the SIT program themes and its Critical Global Issues focus. The paper should also include a comprehensive schedule, specific skills and knowledge acquired through their experience. Rubrics for the focus project paper and presentation will be shared with students when in country. Lastly, as a practice of reciprocity, students will be required to submit a report directly to the placement organization about their learnings.

Learning Outcomes

The Internship & Seminar course comprises of 120 hours for four academic credits. Upon completion students will be able to:

- Demonstrate awareness of the ethics involved in an internship in the context of Chile;
- Describe, analyze, and synthesize their learning experience in the internship in the form of an internship paper;
- Articulate new learning from the internship experience in the form of an oral presentation;
- Show understanding of Chile's cultural identity, social justice, and community development;
- Assess the challenges of social justice and community development in the context of Chile;
- Gain meaningful and practical experience in their chosen field.

Language of Instruction

This course is taught in Spanish and students will be exposed to vocabulary related to the internship through a wide range of venues and regional locales prior to the start of the internship. Students requiring additional support will be offered one-on-one tutorials to focus on their needs. Considering some internship placement requirements, and in order to fully accomplish learning outcomes, a certain level of language capacity is expected before the start of the internship. The minimum required Spanish level (B1-B2) is from 125 to 215 in accordance with the SIELE certificate exam. Student should note that the main learning outcome is not to improve their Spanish level, but more to engage in experiential learning where their Spanish skills will be applied.

Course Schedule

*Please be aware that topics and excursions may vary to take advantage of any emerging events, to accommodate changes in our lecturers' availability, and to respect any changes that would affect student safety. Students will be notified if this occurs.

Module I: The Internship Experience: Review and Reflection

This module occurs while students are fully participating in their internship. Critical and guided reflection will play a key role in student development and learning throughout the internship. Students will keep an internship journal in which they will reflect on questions and issues listed below. Journaling should be undertaken daily while keeping in mind the learning objectives of their observations and documentation. Students will submit two progress reports on their successes and limitations toward achieving learning objectives. Students will also meet with their instructors for reflection and discussion during the internship.

Cultural observations: How is the professional environment different from what you are used to? What are you learning about working collaboratively in this culture? How do you find yourself reacting to and adjusting to cultural practices that are different from what you are accustomed to? How does it feel to be a foreigner in this environment?

Theory and Practice: Digging Deeper: How does the work of your internship site connect to important program themes? How has the experience at your internship challenged or affirmed the arguments in a reading or lecture from this semester?

Skills and Experience: What insights into this field have you gained through your internship? What skills are most valuable for this internship site and what opportunities have you had to improve your skills in this area? What has challenged you and how are you handling those challenges? How do you see this experience preparing you for future opportunities?

Learning Goals: How much progress have you made toward your learning goals? What experiences or activities have contributed to your ability to meet them? Are you learning something important you didn't anticipate and would like to add to your Learning Goals at this time?

Module II: Processing and Maximizing the Internship Experience

The final module occurs toward the end or after the internship and focuses on ways of processing and articulating the internship as well as equipping students with practical tips and strategies for making the most of the experience personally, academically, and professionally. Students will reflect on the internship experience and process the learning that occurred in a safe and supportive context. The internship may have been a different experience than expected, may challenge the student's expectations of interning in a diverse and challenging environment, and may change the student's perspective of life projects or professional goals. The module discusses ways of acknowledging both the successes and failures of the internship and setting realistic goals for the future.

Additional seminar content will include:

1. Processing the End of the Internship Experience
2. Closure with Colleagues and Supervisors
3. Articulating the Experience through an oral presentation
4. Next Steps: How to include your internship on your résumé, how to frame the internship in a cover letter, and other ways to build on this experience.

Ethics

The internship experience must reflect SIT's ethics policy and commitment to the values of reciprocity. The student intern should also abide by the policy and regulations of the host institution including dress, punctuality, and employee behavior. Violations of SIT's code of conduct or employee conduct at the host institution will result in an immediate termination of the internship and can lead to further disciplinary sanctions by SIT.

Evaluation and Grading Criteria

At the end of the internship period, students are expected to present their work to the group. Assessment of both written work and the oral presentation is based on quality, academic scholarship, and adherence to the highest ethical standards.

Description of Assignments

Discussion and Reflection Sessions

Discussion and reflection sessions take place during the internship period. Students are expected to discuss experiences in the internship, reflect on the professional learning process, and respond to any prompts assigned by the internship instructor. These discussion and reflection sessions are key elements for personal, academic, and professional development during the internship. Depending on the circumstances, these sessions may be held in person or virtually.

Progress Reports

The progress report should document the student's progress toward achieving their learning objectives during the internship. Students also document the challenges they face and how they try to deal with those challenges. Students submit two progress reports in the course of their internship experience.

Internship Performance

This evaluation by the Academic Director assesses the student's internship experience, overall professional achievements, and self-growth.

Oral Presentation

In the presentation, you should provide a succinct and clear description of the internship experience, a brief history of the organization where you interned, the activities undertaken, and key insights gained that are related to the core program themes. You should demonstrate effective management of the discussion with the audience and attend to the aesthetic elements of the delivery.

Final Paper

Students are expected to submit a 15-20-page final paper at the end of their internship experience. The final paper should include a title, list of acknowledgments, and an abstract. The paper should also have an introduction which summarizes the work and history of the organization and incorporates a number of references, detailed description of the activities accomplished, and strong and innovative aspects of the organization. The final paper must include thoughtfully articulated analytical writing that connects learning at the internship to the broader themes of the semester program and/or the investigation of one or more specific questions. Students will also reflect on the learning and research process throughout their placements through autoethnography, critical self-reflexivity, and intercultural lenses. The paper should be well written, well organized, and aesthetically pleasing. A summary of the final paper assessment rubric will be shared with students in advance.

Expectations and Policies

- Show up prepared, on time, and appropriately dressed for your internship. Comply with organization rules.
- Have progress report assignments completed on schedule and done accordingly to the specified requirements. This will help ensure that your assignments are returned in a timely manner.
- Ask questions when in the field/office. Engage yourself in everyday life of the organization and initiate interaction.
- Comply with academic integrity policies (no plagiarism or cheating, nothing unethical).
- Respect differences of opinion (those of your internship supervisor and colleagues, classmates, lecturers, local constituents engaged with onsite visits). You are not expected to agree with everything you hear, but you are expected to listen across difference and consider other perspectives with respect.

Please refer to the SIT Study Abroad Student Handbook for policies on academic integrity, ethics, warning and probation, diversity and disability, sexual harassment, and the academic appeals process.
