India: Virtual Internship in Public Health, Community Action, and Response to Covid-19 Pandemic

This syllabus is representative of a typical term. Because courses develop and change over time to take advantage of unique learning opportunities, actual course content varies from term to term.

Description
This course consists of a twelve-week internship with a primary health care center, local public health organization, think tank with a focus on public health, research organization, m-Health business organization, social venture in public health, or international NGO with public health focus. The aim of an internship is to enable the student to gain valuable public health internship experience and enhance their skills in the developing world and an international work environment.

The internship provides an opportunity for practical experience in public health, or other related areas. The experience is meant to help students gain an understanding of the functions of a primary health care hospital, a public health organization, role of village health workers and their responsibilities. Thus, this experience will provide students with the opportunity to engage in the reflective practitioner process as they are immersed in the field and gain experience.

SIT will use its extensive network to facilitate the placement process with an organization. The organization and the student’s internship activities, including the Internship Learning Agreement, must be approved by SIT’s academic director.

Regular reflection and assessment meetings are held with the academic director and/or internship coordinator to review the progress of the internship and learning associated with the internship experience.

The students complete an internship and submit a final paper in which they process their learning experience on the internship, analyze an issue important to the organization, and/or design a socially responsible solution to a problem identified by the organization. Approved in advance by the Academic Director and the internship supervisor, the internship paper may involve interviews and other data collection methods relevant to achieving internship learning goals. The paper and final presentation reveal how those goals are linked to the SIT program theme and its Global Health & Well-being and Development & Inequality focus. The paper should also document a comprehensive schedule and the specific skills and knowledge acquired through the experience. Rubrics for the final paper and presentation will be shared with students.
The Internship course includes a module titled Internship in the context of rural and urban India, which is designed to help students build a foundation on which to engage in the internship experience.

Learning Outcomes
The Internship and Seminar course comprises 180 hours of academic activities, including 120 hours at the internship. Upon completion of the course, students will be able to:

- Demonstrate awareness and apply concepts in the undertaking of the internship in the context of India;
- Produce an internship paper in which student assess the culmination of their learning experience;
- Provide an oral presentation in which student present the output of the internship experience;
- Show newly acquired knowledge and skills in one or more specific public health area in India;
- Assess the challenges of access to health care for women, children and other marginalized groups in India and developing world;
- Gain meaningful and practical internship experience in their chosen field.

Language of Instruction
This course is taught in English, but students will be exposed to vocabulary related to course content through in-country expert lectures and field visits in a wide range of venues and regional locales prior to the start of the internship.

Internship Requirements

Module I: The Internship Experience: Review and Reflection
This module occurs while students are fully participating in their internship. Critical and guided reflection will play a key role in student development and learning during the internship. Students will keep an internship journal in which they respond to the questions/issues listed below as instructed. Journaling should be done daily, keeping in mind the learning objectives. Students will submit two progress reports on their successes and limitations toward achieving learning objectives. Students will also meet with their instructor and other internship students for reflection and discussion during the internship.

Cultural observations: How is the professional environment different from what you are used to? What are you learning about working collaboratively in this culture? How do you find yourself reacting to and adjusting to cultural practices that are different from what you are accustomed to? How does it feel to be a foreigner in this environment?

Theory and Practice: Digging Deeper: How does the work of your internship site connect to important program themes? How has the experience at your internship challenged or affirmed the arguments in a reading or lecture from this semester?

Skills and Experience: What insights into this field have you gained through your internship? What skills are most valuable for this internship site and what opportunities have you had to improve your skills in this area? What has challenged you and how are you handling those challenges? How do you see this experience preparing you for future opportunities?

Learning Goals: How much progress have you made toward your learning goals? What experiences or activities have contributed to your ability to meet them? Are you learning something important you didn’t anticipate and would like to add to your Learning Goals at this time?

Module 2: Processing and Maximizing the Internship Experience
The final module occurs toward the end or after the internship and focuses on ways of processing and articulating the internship as well as equipping students with practical tips and strategies for making the most of the experience personally, academically, and professionally. Students will reflect on the internship experience and process the learning that occurred in a safe and supportive context. The internship may have been a different experience than expected, may challenge the student’s expectations of interning in a diverse and challenging environment, and may change the student’s perspective of life projects or professional goals. The module discusses ways of acknowledging both the successes and challenges of the internship and setting realistic goals for the future.

Additional seminar content will include:
1. Processing the End of the Internship Experience
2. Closure with Colleagues and Supervisors
3. Articulating the Experience through an oral presentation
4. Next Steps: How to include your internship on your résumé, how to frame the internship in a cover letter, and other ways to build on this experience.

Ethics
The internship experience must reflect SIT’s ethics policy and commitment to the values of reciprocity. The student intern should also abide by the policy and regulations of the host institution including dress, punctuality, and employee behavior. Violations of SIT’s code of conduct or employee conduct at the host institution will result in an immediate termination of the internship and can lead to further disciplinary sanctions by SIT.

Evaluation and Grading Criteria
At the end of the internship period, students are expected to present their learning experiences to the group. Assessment of both written work and the oral presentation is based on quality, academic scholarship, and adherence to the highest ethical standards.

Description of Assignments

Discussion and Reflection Sessions
Discussion and reflection sessions take place on a weekly basis. Students are expected to discuss experiences in the internship, reflect on the professional learning process, and respond to any prompts assigned by the internship instructor. These discussion and reflection sessions are key elements for personal, academic, and professional development during the internship. These sessions may be held virtually.

Progress Reports
The progress report should document the student’s progress toward achieving their learning objectives during the internship. Students also document the challenges they face and how they try to deal with those challenges. Students submit six progress reports in the course of their internship experience.

Internship Performance
This evaluation by the Academic Director assesses the student’s internship experience, overall professional achievements, and self-growth.

Oral Presentation
In the presentation, you should provide a succinct and clear description of the internship experience, a brief history of the organization where you interned, the activities undertaken, and key insights gained that are related to the core program themes. You should demonstrate effective management of the discussion with the audience and attend to the aesthetic elements of the delivery.

Final Paper
Students are expected to submit a 15-20 page final paper at the end of their internship experience. The final paper should include a title, list of acknowledgments, and an abstract. The paper should also have an introduction which summarizes the work and history of the organization and incorporates a number of references, detailed description of the activities accomplished, and strong and innovative aspects of the organization. The final paper must include thoughtfully articulated analytical writing that connects learning at the internship to the broader themes of the semester program and/or the investigation of one or more specific questions. The paper should be well written, well organized, and aesthetically pleasing. A summary of the final paper assessment rubric will be shared with students in advance. (Example at the end of syllabus.)

Expectations and Policies

Show up prepared, on time, and appropriately dressed for your internship. Comply with organization rules.

Have work journal and progress report assignments completed on schedule and done accordingly to the specified requirements. This will help ensure that your assignments are returned in a timely manner.

Ask questions. Engage yourself in everyday life of the organization and initiate interaction.

Comply with academic integrity policies (no plagiarism or cheating, nothing unethical).

Respect differences of opinion (those of your internship supervisor and colleagues, classmates, lecturers, local constituents). You are not expected to agree with everything you hear, but you are expected to listen across difference and consider other perspectives with respect.

Please refer to the SIT Study Abroad Student Handbook for policies on academic integrity, ethics, warning and probation, diversity and disability, sexual harassment, and the academic appeals process.
Disability Services: Students with disabilities are encouraged to contact Disability Services at disabilityservices@sit.edu for information and support in facilitating an accessible educational experience. Additional information regarding SIT Disability Services, including a link to the online request form, can be found on the Disability Services website at: http://studyabroad.sit.edu/disabilityservices.
